15	UP Diliman	Statement of SOLAIR on labor impact of COVID-19 (June 10)	Statement of the UP School of Labor and Industrial Relations on the COVID-19 crisis impact on labor and call to action. It focuses on the call to save the MSMEs and to protect the workers.	https://www.facebook.com/UPSOLAIR/photos/a.1494029350835351/2626694094235532/?type=3&theater	UP SOLAIR	UNIVERSITY OF THE PHILIPPINES SCHOOL OF LABOR AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS CATASTROPHIC LOSSES IN JOBS AND WORK HOURS: SAVE THE MSMEs AND PROTECT THE WORKERS June 8, 2020 About 8 million Filipinos lost their employment in the first quarter of 2020 compared to the first quarter of 2019 corresponding to a decline in the number of employed from 4.8 million workers to 33.8 million workers (April 2020, Labor Force Survey, Philippine Statistics Authority). Moreover, for the majority of those who managed to stay employed, they do so at less than the standard 48-hour workweek. The percent of workers who worked at least 48 hours a week dropped from 68 percent in the first quarter of 2019 to 28 percent in the first quarter of 2020 or a decline by 18.6 million full-time workers. Of the 23.6 million part-time workers as of April 2020, 17.3 million cited the COVID-19 lockdown as the reason for working less than the standard workweek. Equally disturbing is the sharp decline in the labor force participation rate from 51.3 percent in April 2019 to 35.6 percent in April this year, the lowest since the 1970s and translates to 3 million less Filipinos in the working ages that are participating in the labor force.More catastrophic losses in both jobs and work hours are expected in the second and third quarters of 2020 in view of: (a) the expansion of the lockdown from Luzon in mid-March to virtually the rest of the country by early April 2020; (b) the extension of the community quarantine until a vaccine against COVID-19 is available and made more widely accessible; and (c) the influx of tens of thousands of displaced overseas Filipino workers.In the provision of the proposed 1.3 Trillion pesos economic stimulus package, we call on the government to ensure priority to both the economic recovery of the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs), which comprise 99.5 percent of total business establishments, and the protection of their workers which account for 63.2 percent of all workers in the country, by providing higher financial incentives (e.g. zero-interest soft loans, deferral of loan payments for a year without penalties, wage subsidies for regular employees, etc.) to MSME employers who will keep at least the same level of employees before the lockdown and regularize their employment. We call on the government and employers to effectively involve trade unions and workers' representatives in the crafting and implementation of any programs and adjustment measures that address economic and business recovery.The imposition of the lockdown to contain the spread of the corona virus has inflicted the most severe damage upon the informal workers (e.g. bicycle and jeepney drivers, street vendors, home-account workers, etc.) who, without work and social security protection, were deprived of the means for survival for themselves and their families. We call for the immediate passage of the Magna Carta for Workers in the Informal Economy, which mandates the State to uphold decent work standards for the informal workers.Finally, where the crisis has stripped most workers of their capacity to earn subsistence incomes, it becomes incumbent upon the State to adopt bolder and effective social reform measures. At the height of the Global Depression in the 1930s, then US President Franklin Roosevelt acted swiftly to curb economic paralysis by enacting the New Deal program of massive job creation through public works that was supplemented by the passage of laws recognizing the right of workers to associate and bargain collectively. Similarly, the then Philippine President Manuel L. Quezon made a bold response by launching a Social Justice Program and establishing the Department of Labor for the protection of labor. We call on the government to take a swift and bold action for social reforms that are necessary to prevent the COVID-19 crisis from morphing into a national human and economic crisis, and to build social cohesion and solidarity through consultation and social dialogue with all affected sectors, including the organized and unorganized workers.

1	UP System	Tribute to Frontliners (June 12)	In a time as dark as a pandemic, the true heroes shine the brightest: our medical and healthcare frontliners and essential workers, the people who risk each day to save lives, protect our campuses and communities, and keep the world safe for the rest of us. The University of the Philippines System and TVUP offer a tribute video to thank and honor the people who continue to serve despite the gravest odds, featuring an original song titled "I'll Hold the Line," composed, arranged and performed by UP Integrated School alumnus Ardie O. Lopez.	https://www.facebook.com/upsystem/posts/3539853349370867	The University of the Philippines System and TVUP

2	UP Visayas	Gifts for Studens of Balay Ilongo (June 5)	Members of UPAA Iloilo delivered both groups' send-off gifts to the resident dormers of Balay Ilonggo who will be going home to Bohol, Zamboanga and General Santos City. This is in appreciation of the hard work of these students who continuously made the DIY-face shields that the alumni associations distributed to health workers and frontliners around Western Visayas.	https://www.facebook.com/U.P.Visayas.Official/posts/1600183253454274	UPAA Iloilo
